Dr. Cedric Tuohy, Jr.
Class of 1943
Humanitarian and Medical Doctor and Surgeon

Doctor Cedric Edward Mero Tuohy graduated from Snohomish High School in 1943. During Cedric’s time at Snohomish High, he was involved in Honor Society, Latin Club, and played varsity football, basketball, and baseball. Later, he served in Italy during World War II and enrolled at the University of Washington, where he earned a Bachelor’s of Science degree in 1949. After receiving his Bachelor’s, Dr. Tuohy continued his schooling at McGill University in Montreal, Canada and graduated with a medical degree in 1953.

He interned at Swedish Hospital in Seattle, and soon returned to his home town of Snohomish where he joined his father and became a general physician and surgeon. Dr. Tuohy served the Snohomish community for 43 years through his work at Valley General Hospital in Monroe, Everett General Hospital, and Providence Hospital in Everett.

Doctor Tuohy was committed to both his community and his profession and contributed to the town of Snohomish greatly. He was generous and kind to both new and old patients, and earned the respect of his community through his friendly and caring attitude. One former patient is quoted as saying that Dr. Tuohy was a “fine, honest, honorable caring man who brightened any gathering with his warmth and good humor.”

Dr. Tuohy’s mother, wife, three children, and four of his grandchildren are all proud alums of Snohomish High School.
