Dear families and friends -

It's hard to believe that it is already time to close out another school year. As I reflect on the events of this past school year, I am reminded of the importance of our mission to provide a high-quality education for every student in the Snohomish School District. Indeed… great things are happening here in Snohomish!

In the Snohomish School District, we are committed to providing a safe and welcoming environment for all students and staff. This year, we have taken steps to enhance our school safety initiatives. As many of us watch and read the all-too-frequent news reports and social media posts about natural disasters, violence and other events, it's natural to worry about how these events could impact our schools.

The safety of Snohomish School District students and staff is our highest priority. We have implemented a new visitor management system, known as SafeVisitor Solutions, which will help us to manage access to our buildings and ensure the safety of all visitors. This system is designed to strengthen security and promote a welcoming and inclusive environment for all visitors; a safe and harmonious workplace for staff.

We also recognize the importance of community partnerships in enhancing school safety. The Snohomish City Police Department has partnered with the Snohomish School District to provide School Resource Officers (SROs) to our schools. These SROs are based at Snohomish High School and Glacier Peak High School. Additionally, we have increased the number of Snohomish dads and father figures who are involved in their students' schools and the Snohomish Police Department has partnered with the Snohomish School District to provide School Resource Officers (SROs) to our schools.

We are also committed to providing ongoing training and education for all staff members, including administrators, teachers, support staff and volunteers. This training includes topics such as school safety, crisis management and emergency procedures.

District Watch DOGS volunteers serve as positive male role models for children at school. They help to interact with members of the police department in informal settings. More than 1,500 Snohomish dads and father figures are involved in their students' schools.

The Snohomish School District invests more than $3 million in school safety-related initiatives each year. This includes investments in school safety and building training, new technology to enhance school safety, updated school entries, fencing, cameras, radios and technical emergency alert systems. We also have ongoing relationships with local law enforcement and community partnerships.

In the Snohomish School District:
- It has been our day-to-day practice that each school has an unobtrusive, reassuring presence and as positive male role models for children at school.
- We work closely with local law enforcement about what to do in the event of an emergency or disaster.
- We conduct ongoing training and education for all staff members, including administrators, teachers, support staff and volunteers.
- We participate in emergency preparedness drills.
- We have ongoing relationships with local law enforcement and community partnerships.
- We provide ongoing school safety training and education.
- We have an ongoing commitment to the safety and well-being of our students.

As we look forward to the new school year, we remain committed to providing a safe and welcoming environment for all students and staff. We appreciate the support of our families and the community in making this possible.

District invests more than $3 million in school safety

Within the past four years, the Snohomish School District district has invested more than $3 million on safety-related school and building training initiatives and enhancements such as updated school entries, fencing, cameras, radios and technical emergency alert systems. We also have a district committee comprised of public safety officers, administration, principals and parents who meets on a regular basis to discuss ways we can continue to improve safety in our schools.

In the Snohomish School District:
- Schools practice regular disaster, lockdown and evacuation drills in preparation for emergencies.
- Building administrations have been trained by local law enforcement about what to do in the event of an emergency or disaster.
- The Snohomish School District has close working relationships with local law enforcement and has provided all police and fire departments with details about each of our school buildings that would be useful should they need to respond to such an emergency.
- It has been our day-to-day practice that each person who comes onto a campus checks in and checks out with the main office of the school. (See the SafeVisitor Solutions story on back page.) This is meant to ensure that in the unlikely event there is a safety concern the main office staff in each building can quickly identify who is or is not on campus.
- We continue to make every effort to improve how we manage access to our buildings and schools.
- District Watch DOGS volunteers serve as an unobtrusive, reassuring presence and as positive male role models for children at school.
- More than 1,500 Snohomish dads and father figures are involved in their students’ schools through the Watch DOGS program.
- Our district has commitments with the Snohomish County Sheriff’s Department and Snohomish City Police Department who provide School Resource Officers (SROs) to our staff. These SROs are based at Snohomish High School and Glacier Peak High School.
- Open communication between home and school is also critical to the safety and well-being of students. Be observant and let your child’s school or the district know if you see or hear something that makes you feel uncomfortable, nervous or frightened.

The Snohomish School District

Dear families and friends,

It’s hard to believe that it is already time to close out another school year. As I reflect on the countless academic and extracurricular achievements of 2018-2019, we can be proud of the quality of our staff, our schools and the actions of our students. Indeed… great things are happening here in Snohomish.

As you read through this issue of School Views, I’d like to call your attention to the important information we have included on our district’s school safety initiatives. As many of us watch and read the all too frequent news reports and social media posts about natural disasters, violence and other events, it’s natural for many to struggle to understand things like this could happen – especially in schools. The safety of Snohomish School District students and staff is our highest priority.

I am excited to share that we are implementing the SafeVisitor Solutions check-in/check-out and volunteer registration system across the district. SafeVisitor Solutions is a visitor and volunteer management system developed specifically for K-12 schools and also used by districts in our surrounding area. This system is designed to strengthen safety and security in our schools and streamline the sign-in process. Here in Snohomish we are committed to promoting a welcoming and inclusive environment for all students, a safe and orderly learning environment for students, and a safe and harmonious workplace for staff.

This issue of School Views also includes important information about programs happening throughout the district during the summer months – Kids Café summer learning program, Book Café summer literacy program, 2019-2020 school registration and meet-the-teacher events. And as you look for opportunities for kids and families to have fun, be safe and keep cool in the months ahead, don’t forget to stop by our Snohomish Aquatic Center. I hope you enjoy your summer break. See you next school year!

District implements new visitor, volunteer management system

We are excited to share that we are implementing the SafeVisitor Solutions check-in/check-out and volunteer registration system across our district. Some of our schools are already using this system, and we plan to have this system fully implemented district-wide by the start of the 2019-2020 school year. The new system allows us to screen volunteers and visitors and provides us with a visitor-log. When entering our buildings, all adult visitors will be required to provide a Washington state driver’s license or other photo ID. In the event of an emergency/evacuation, it is important to have an accurate visitor log. Approved volunteers and visitors are welcome in our schools. Our goal is to keep everybody safe while maintaining a welcoming environment.

Did you know the majority of people who live in the Snohomish School District do not have school-aged children? The purpose of School Views is to let our community know about the programs, events and activities happening in their Snohomish School District. If you have an idea for a future message from the Superintendent, please contact shawn.stevenson@sno.wednet.edu.
