Beliefs

We, the Snohomish school community, which is composed of students, staff, parents, and other Snohomish community members, recognize that education, like life, is a community experience and believe that:

- All members of the Snohomish school community can learn and take responsibility for continuing to learn.
- All members of the community have valuable things to teach.
- All members have gifts.
- All students learn at different rates.
- All schools provide a productive learning environment.
- All parents are a child's first teacher and lifelong role model; children value what their parents value.
- All stakeholders discuss and share information in a cooperative spirit.
