Whole class live Zoom

- Live Zoom to start the day provides common learning experiences and community building opportunities for in-person students and students learning from home. It also allows the teacher to check-in with home day students and answer questions about the day’s learning.

Asynchronous, self-paced, independent learning:

- The academic focus and learning continue. Instructions and materials for the home day learning will be provided by the teacher at the end of the in-person day the previous day. The teacher reviews the instructions and answers student questions during the live Zoom at the beginning of the student’s home day schedule.

In-person special education, ELL, LAP and Title services

- Staff members to provide students receiving special services to provide instruction, support and/or intervention.

Friday schedule

- Groups A and B will learn from home. Students will Zoom with their teacher for one hour in the morning. Afterwards, students will do self-paced, independent learning from home without teacher interaction. Available activities and lessons include music, PE, and library.
